Phillips wins House seat

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Walter James Phillips narrowly defeated Clement Stephen (Steve) Benvenuti in yesterday's runoff election for the State House of Representatives District No. 122 seat, according to unofficial returns.

The seat was vacated when J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis resigned from the legislature to serve as an assistant district attorney.

Unofficial returns show Phillips, 60, an attorney with the firm of Gex, Gex and Phillips, with 1,431 votes compared to 1,410 for his opponent Benvenuti, 30, a self-employed attorney and a political newcomer.

Phillips is a former Hancock County representative who served in that position from 1952-60 and from 1964-72.

Unofficial individual precinct returns for Phillips and Benvenuti, respectively, are:

—Ansley, 16 and 17;
—Lakeshore, 68 and 69;
—Clermont Harbor, 27 and 32;
—Arlington, 79 and 86;
—Waveland East, 118 and 160;
—Catahoula, 24 and 25;
—Pearlington, 129 and 40;
—Bayou Phillip, 8 and 17;
—Waveland West, 68 and 81;
—Dedaux, 66 and 19;
—North Bay West, 122 and 212;
—Diamondhead, 105 and 86;
—Kiln West, 29 and 24;
—West Shoreline Park, 30 and 25;
—City Hall, 104 and 73;
—South Bay, 155 and 125;
—Central School, 64 and 67;
—Courthouse, 70 and 106;
—Edwardsville, 34 and 39;
—Fenton, 17 and 41;

—Kiln East, 40 and 32; and
—North Bay East, 58 and 55.
One challenge ballot and two affidavits will be checked Monday, when the returns are certified.

Jury deliberates six hours, finds Koch guilty of murder

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
After about six and one-half hours of deliberation Friday, a four-man, eight-woman Hancock County jury brought in a guilty verdict in the murder trial of James D. Koch, 50, of Shoreline Park. Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin, noting that the sentence was automatic, sentenced Koch to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Koch's attorney, Jimmie McGuire of Bay St. Louis, said he would appeal the decision.

A former Bay St. Louis auxiliary policeman, Koch was suspended from the police department after he was arrested in connection with the shooting of Delois B. Manning, 50, in her home in Shoreline Park on Feb. 9, 1983.

The shooting, which took place in Manning's bedroom, followed an argument over money.

Hancock Sheriff Ronnie Peterson and Hancock County Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Sany all testified that Koch, who called the Sheriff's Department following the shooting, said he was leaving the bedroom when he saw a "flash" from the corner of his eye.

They testified that Koch said Manning said she was going to kill him, and he thought she had pulled a .25 calibre pistol he had given her for her birthday.

Koch told the officers that he shot Manning in self defense with his .357 magnum revolver.

The pistol was found under Manning's hand, but later tests showed the pistol was not loaded.

Pathologist J.D. Rutherford III, who conducted an autopsy on Manning's body, testified that a gunshot wound to the head severed the spinal cord at the base of the brain.

The door at which Koch told officers he was standing at the time of the shooting was six to eight feet away from the bed where Manning's body was found.

Suspect captured in double murder

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The suspect in a double slaying in Waveland Friday night was apprehended only 15 hours or so later in Midland, Tex.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner said yesterday afternoon that he, Waveland Police Department Investigator Robert (Poochie) Tartavouille and State Investigator T.P. Naylor will fly to Texas either today or Monday to bring back Allen Nicolaou, 18, of Canton, Ohio.

Ladner said Robert Corkern, 21, of Bayside has been booked as a material witness in the case, which involves not only the killings but also armed robbery and kidnapping.

The deceased are Gerald A. Comiskey, 54, of 1320 Dubuc Lane and Keith L. McMillan of New Orleans.

Tartavouille said both men were shot three times.

He said following a telephone call to the Waveland Police Department about 8:15 p.m. Friday, Patrolman Chuck James went to Comiskey's home and found the two men.

McMillan was dead at the scene. Comiskey died during surgery at Hancock General Hospital.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said the four men were apparently sitting in the kitchen when an argument ensued and the shootings occurred.

"After the incident in Waveland," he said, "Nicolaou took Corkern with him."

"The details are sketchy right now, but our information is that he forced Corkern to go with him."

The two men allegedly proceeded north on Highway 603 to the Olde

Rooster Cafe, where Nicolaou committed an armed robbery and abducted two young women aged 14 and 18, Tartavouille said.

After the abduction, they continued north on Highway 603 to the Necaise Crossing area, where Corkern persuaded Nicolaou to release him and the girls.

At that time, Tartavouille said, Corkern called the Sheriff's Department.

Ladner said Nicolaou was captured by authorities in Midland about 11 a.m. Saturday after Hancock County officials followed up on information leading to an address there.

Officials from the Waveland Police Department, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Mississippi Highway Patrol are cooperating in the continuing investigation.

Rippetoe turned over to federal authorities

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Friday the Hancock County Board of Supervisors granted R.D. (Bob) Rippetoe's petition and released him from Hancock County jail to be turned over to federal officials.

A condition of Rippetoe's release was that he pay $4,480 restitution and one third of his $14,320 fine.

The 37-year-old Pass Christian contractor was found guilty in July, 1981 of padding a bill to the Hancock County School District for repairs made after a tornado damaged Gulfview Elementary School in May, 1980.

He was sentenced to one year in the county jail, with six months suspended on condition he work on a Bay St. Louis park project.

He was also ordered to pay restitution to the school district plus a fine three times the amount he was charged with defrauding from the school district.

The Board of Supervisors has the power to release county prisoners who have served 75 percent of their sentences.

Rippetoe has served 146 of his 180-day sentence, Attorney William Frisbie told the board.

Rippetoe faces federal charges for extortion, drug smuggling and conspiracy to commit murder.

Also Friday, the supervisors discussed various problems resulting from people leaving abandoned and immobile vehicles on roads, especially in subdivision areas such as Bayside and Shoreline Park.

Supervisor Bert Courge noted that school buses have trouble getting around the vehicles, and that when roads are wet and muddy the parked vehicles create problems for all drivers.

The supervisors agreed to post notices for 30 days warning people that

Bay stop still possible

Wilcox reports negotiations continuing on second train

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Negotiations are still in process for a passenger train stop in Bay St. Louis, D.E. Wilcox, Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commission member, revealed in an exclusive interview from his home Thursday.

Wilcox displayed a letter from Amtrack dated Jan. 4, 1984, also reporting a second train from Mobile to New Orleans is being considered.

"The stop for the first train recently announced in Hancock County is designated as Bay St. Louis-Waveland by Amtrack. The decision for the first train stop to be made in Waveland was made by the Rapid Rail Commission upon recommendations from the experts who surveyed the area to be served," Wilcox added.

Wilcox listed two reasons for the selection of the Waveland stop.

—First, 80 per cent of the area to be served is closer to the Waveland stop.

—Second, the Waveland stop is much more accessible. It is easier to give directions from US-90 to the Waveland Avenue crossing than to the Bay St. Louis Depot.

Wilcox emphasized, "The officials of Bay St. Louis or Waveland had nothing to do with the stop selection."

"Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gautier, Ocean Springs and New Orleans East all have the same plight," Wilcox stated.

"Those sites are being considered in negotiations for a second train," Wilcox allowed.

The local commission member continued, "One must remember, a passenger train is a first in many years in the United States. Amtrack has been deleting passenger service instead of adding."

The Rapid Rail Commission members all felt good when they attended a Dec. 11, 1983 meeting in Washington. We felt it would be at the most an hour to sign the papers for two trains between Mobile and New Orleans. The feelings were changed, and only one train was negotiated for at that time, the meeting lasted some five hours," Wilcox said.

"The public must realize just how much time it takes to get things done in Washington. This push for a commuter train has been going on for many years on the Gulf Coast. Larry Bennett, Bay St. Louis mayor, and I served on a commission for several years and all the expenses came out of our own pockets. Other pushes were made previous to that time too," Wilcox added.

Wilcox continued, "We have had many meetings in Washington on this train for the World's Fair along the Coast."

"Our officials in Washington, which include Senators John Stennis and Thad Cochran, and Congressman Trent Lott have all had aides at these meetings helping the Tri-State Commission members," Wilcox said.

In helping the case for a second commuter train Wilcox continued, "A letter of thanks from Gulf Coast residents to each of these political leaders for their tremendous efforts in helping us secure the first train, could possibly help getting a second one."

"I realize many local officials, especially Mayor Bennett, have made trips, sent messages, and made telephone calls. All this has helped, and they too should be commended," Wilcox said.

The initial "seed money" was secured by Congressman Lott. Without the $350,000 for engineering, surveys and expenses of the commission, there would be no Amtrack train, Wilcox said.

The states of Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana also contributed some $150,000 each for start up cost, which were necessary for the train service, Wilcox stated.

In closing Wilcox was hopeful that the next news from Amtrack would be a passenger train stopping in Bay St. Louis and the other nearby communities.

FIRST TO RIDE MISSISSIPPI TRAIN—Leo Seal Jr., left, and Larry Bennett, Bay St. Louis mayor were among the first to ride the Mississippi Railway Museum's train on Saturday on the tracks of the Hancock County Port and Harbor. The Port and Harbor's engine with David Green, engineer, and Roy Taylor, flagman, assisted by members of the Mississippi Museum's members made two trips on the 3.5 miles of tracks. J.V. Cannon, president of the non-profit organization, said a steam powered locomotive was being reconditioned in Birmingham, Ala. for the train. The train cars are in various stages of reconditioning. A depot will be constructed near the entrance of the Port Beauville Industrial Park. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

She is survived by a sister, Miss Helen Wright of Pass Christian.

Itinerant solicitors should be registered

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce urges all local businesses to be careful in purchasing advertising from outside companies who have not sought endorsement from the chamber and the police departments.

"Due to the increased interest in the World's Fair in New Orleans, many outside companies will be soliciting advertising for promotional publications," said Clarice Gustin, Chamber executive director, "and we want all local businesses to make sure they are dealing with reputable companies.

"If a local business is approached by an outside company who has not received the necessary endorsement, they should make the company representative aware that they should contact either the Chamber office or the local police department or both before soliciting," she continued.

The Chamber office keeps a list of companies that are in the area soliciting for various purposes, and anyone desiring more information should call the Chamber at 467-9048.

More arrests to follow from January grand jury

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A partial list of 37 indictments handed down by the Hancock County Grand Jury was released this week.

The remainder will be made public after the individuals charged have been arrested.

The indictments released include:

—Herman J. Borja Jr. of Long Beach, attempted sexual battery of a Gulfport woman on Oct. 31 off Highway 607 near Pearlring;

—Barry J. Navarre of Slidell, La., possession of 220 grams of marijuana with intent to sell at the National Space Technology Laboratories on Oct. 13;

—Veronica M. Barrus of Waveland, burglary of jewelry from Mr. J's Variety Shop in Waveland on Aug. 12;

—Dominic Valachi of Bayside Park, two counts of forging checks on the account of the Gulfview School Parent-Teachers Club account on June 28;

—Charles W. Boggs Jr. of Shoreline Park, burglary of the Rebels Club in Bay St. Louis on Dec. 6, taking checks, two of which were cashed;

—Robert J. Fayard of Bay St. Louis, armed robbery with a gun of the Junior Food Store at U.S. 90 and Second St., Bay St. Louis, on Jan. 16;

—Leonard Lewis and Gerald Christmas, both of Bay St. Louis, burglary of Lee's Pawn Shop on U.S. 90 and Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis, on Sept. 12, taking two revolvers and assorted rings;

—Neal Wilkerson of Bay St. Louis, armed robbery with a knife of the Junior Food Store at Main and St. Francis Streets, Bay St. Louis, on Nov. 23;

—Edwin Williams of Bay St. Louis, sexual assault (fondling) of a ten-year-old girl on Dec. 5;

—Kevin Ladner of Caesar, grand larceny of heavy equipment in the Caesar community on Nov. 15; and —Billy Ray Breland and Douglas H. Creel, burglary of an automobile on Oct. 21, 1982. Breland is now incarcerated at the Mississippi State Penitentiary at Parchman and Creel is in the Louisiana penitentiary at Angola.

The grand jury declined to indict four people who had been charged earlier with crimes:

—Howell Crouch of Clermont Harbor, accused last July of the murder of Kenneth (Dooley) Williams outside a grocery store in Clermont Harbor during a neighborhood disturbance;

—Bobby Gene Mayberry of Necaise Crossing, accused of stealing a cow near his farm on Highway 53 last fall; and James Hill and Melvin Daniels, both of Waveland, accused of shoplifting.

Hilliker announces for Bay City Council

William P. Hilliker of Paradise Point Drive is announcing his candidacy for Bay St. Louis City Councilman, Ward I.

Hilliker is a graduate of the College of Wooster (Ohio), took engineering at New York University, and did his graduate work at the University of Chicago (Ill.).

He retired to Bay St. Louis 21 years ago after a lifetime career of research chemistry, technical sales, service in the U.S. Navy during World War II, management in distribution economics starting with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, and concluding with 34 years with Standard Oil (Indiana) and its subsidiaries: Pan-Am Southern Corp., (New Orleans), American Oil Co. (New York), and Amoco International (London, England).

Hilliker is a member of The American Veterans Committee, Society of Automotive Engineers, Rotary, the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, and serves as a Hancock County Youth Court volunteer counselor.

He has three children, eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. He is married to Meg Mullins Hilliker.

Hilliker says, "I will continue to help the City Council in all ways to make sure Bay St. Louis is a good place to live, and strengthen our base for growth in the future."

"This means good homes, good drainage, good streets, good schools and libraries—all the things that the old residents want and the new residents and businesses need and will examine carefully before locating here."

"I think that with my experience and desire to be helpful I can work well with mayor and council. I love this town and want to help all I can," Hilliker said.

But John M. Allen from the Mississippi Crime Laboratory in Jackson testified that tattooing (powder burns) on Manning's face indicated the gun had been fired 'less than 18 inches but more than one inch' from her left cheek.

The bullet that killed Manning was never found, but testimony regarding a hole in the wall where it exited from the house showed it was impossible for Koch to have fired from the bedroom door.

Both Peterson and Ladner testified that Koch demonstrated at the crime scene where he was standing when he shot Manning.

But when Koch took the stand he denied going back into the bedroom after law officials arrived at the Manning house.

He said the shooting completely tore him up, and that he couldn't go back to the room where Manning's body lay.

The door in question, he said, was the closet door beside the bed, not the bedroom exit door.

Koch testified that he had known Manning for about a year, that they had been lovers but that their relationship had cooled when Manning became good friends with Koch's wife.

On Feb. 9, he said, he went to Manning's house about 4:30 p.m., taking along a six-pack of beer.

When she asked him to go get more beer, he testified, he returned home, discovered he had no money, asked his wife for some and went back to Manning's after Mrs. Koch said she had no money either.

After the shooting Koch said he grabbed his T-shirt to wipe the blood from Manning's face, thinking he had only grazed her.

Except for lifting her head, he said he did not move her body.

Koch testified that Manning had a violent temper, but Manning's daughter Patricia Peatman from Pensacola, Fla. denied it in her testimony.

In rebuttal testimony to refute Koch's statement that he had never threatened Manning, Assistant District Attorneys J.P. Compretta and Margaret Alfonso put Thomas L. Mathews of Shoreline Park and Sheryl Thompson of Kiln on the stand.

Both Mathews, operator of Bayou LaCroix Marina, and Thompson, former bartender there, testified that in late November or early December of 1982 Koch and Manning had an argument while drinking beer at the marina.

car, they said, Koch pulled a gun from his boot, followed her out, stuck the gun up to the car window beside Manning's face and said, "If you say one more word, I'll blow your ...damned head off."

Instructions to the jury included consideration of murder, manslaughter or not guilty verdicts.

About 3 p.m. Friday the jury asked Griffin for a definition of 'malice in the heat of passion.'

They also asked the difference between passion and murder.

On Monday McGuire asked Griffin for a change of venue, arguing that Koch could not receive a fair and impartial trial in Hancock County due to publicity in newspaper articles and television reports.

The motion was denied.

The jury's decision was announced in an unusual manner.

"After much deliberation, some arguments and many thoughts, we find the defendant guilty of murder," the jury spokeswoman announced.

Koch was expressionless during the announcement of the verdict and sentencing.

His wife Rosemary, sitting behind him, was visibly upset, and Manning's daughter broke into tears.

OTHER COURT MATTERS

The probation of Joseph M. Garvin, 23, on burglary accessory charges was revoked and Garvin was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary.

Garvin pled guilty to several charges in the petition for revocation, including contempt of court for failure to appear, driving under the influence, arrearages on payments to his probation officer and leaving the state without permission.

Judge Griffin also revoked the probation of Daniel W. Stewart, 21, of Waveland for a burglary conviction in October, 1981 and sentenced him to five years in the state penitentiary, giving him two years of credit for serving 15 months in a California penitentiary on a conviction there.

Stewart had a 'hold' order from Hancock County when he was released from confinement in California.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department officers brought him back to Mississippi.

AMERICAN PLAYHOUSE—Ivan Dixon and Abby Lincoln star in the 1964 film, "Nothing But a Man," which will be presented on "American Playhouse" at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 7, on Mississippi Educational Television.

Dioscesan official to lead Holy Land Easter tour

Rev. James Russell, director of communications for the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi, will lead a 17-day Easter Pilgrimage to Rome and the Holy Land from April 9 to 25, 1984.

This tour, which is sponsored by the Catholic Foundation, Diocese of Biloxi, will initially visit the Eternal City of Rome where the Holy Year proclaimed by Pope John Paul II will come to an end on Easter Sunday.

The next Holy Year to be celebrated will be in the year 2000.

Visits to the Vatican, its world famous basilicas of St. Mary Major and St. John Lateran, the Sistine Chapel, Michaelangelo's masterpieces and the Catacombs are scheduled.

Attendance at a Papal audience is also scheduled on the tour itinerary.

After a five-day visit of Rome, the group will fly to the Holy Land where the group will spend Holy Week in the land where Jesus walked.

Sightseeing stops will be made at these traditional Biblical locations: Petra, the Spring of Moses, Jericho, the Sea of Galilee, Nazareth, the Church of the Nativity, the Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane and the Dead Sea.

Easter Sunday services will be celebrated in Jerusalem.

Additional information and a brochure outlining the itinerary in detail may be obtained by writing the Catholic Foundation, Diocese of Biloxi, P. O. Box 1189, Biloxi, MS 39533.

Catholic diocese marks 'Make A Will Sunday'

Sunday, Jan. 29 has been designated as "Make a Will Sunday" throughout the Diocese of Biloxi, according to the Most Reverend Joseph L. Howze, bishop of Biloxi.

In a pastoral letter to all parishes, which will be read at all Masses on Sunday, in all churches, Howze emphasized "the importance of making a last will and testament as a sacred obligation which is neither difficult nor expensive."

The oversight of a person dying without a last will results in a probate court dividing and distributing a deceased person's worldly possessions according to state law rather than the deceased individual's wishes and desires. Additional administrative expenses and costs are usually incurred which are paid from the estate's assets.

Howze also stated "That since everything we have in this world comes from God, I suggest you make your will consistent with your Christian faith by remembering your parish church, your parish school and/or a diocesan apostolate in your will."

The Catholic Foundation of the Diocese of Biloxi has published a pamphlet "Do I Need a Will?"

Copies of this pamphlet have been made available in all churches throughout the diocese.

TREES SEMINAR

Trees for Mississippi Communities, a seminar on the management of urban trees, will be held March 29 at the Bost Extension Center, Building B Theater, on the Mississippi State University Campus at Starkville.

The seminar is designed to provide citizens and managers in Mississippi's urban areas with an awareness of the benefits of trees to their environment and information on the care of trees and developing tree management programs for public properties.

The meeting is open to anyone interested in tree care but was developed with city managers and program support organizations, such as garden and civic clubs, and beautification groups in mind.

The program should also be of particular interest to arborists, landscape architects, horticulturists, foresters, utility workers and other conservationists.

Program brochures will be available soon. For more information, write the Extension Forestry Department, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, P. O. Box 5426, Mississippi State, MS 39762 or Urban Forester, Mississippi Forestry Commission, 908 Robert E. Lee Building, Jackson, MS 39201.

WILDFIRES
Extreme cold temperatures in recent weeks across Mississippi have put virtually all vegetation into a cured stage and significantly increased the danger of wildfires during dry periods, according to State Forester Sid Moss.

Moss said the state was currently experiencing only low to moderate numbers of uncontrolled fires to this point but that fire danger was steadily building with each successive dry day.

He cautioned the public in general to be aware of the fire danger.

Moss suggests to landowners that they schedule necessary outdoor debris burning only on calm days when there is enough humidity in the air and in grass and other low vegetation to allow safe, easy control of fires.

Woods arson and debris burning continue to account for the start of most wildfires in Mississippi each year during the usual November-April high fire danger season, according to State Forestry Commission records.

Ironically, the increased use of wood for home heating in recent years has brought with it an increase in destructive wildfires started from careless dumping of hot wood ashes on and near dry grass during windy dry weather periods.

The Forestry Commission suggests that covered storage pits could be dug for disposal of ashes to avoid this problem. Ashes could later in the spring be spread over garden spots for soil enrichment, the foresters say.

The Mississippi Highway Department has been very busy in patching the 'pot holes' on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

We do want you to understand we are complimenting the maintenance crews for doing a good job, it just seems the holes appear every day because of the severe wet weather we have been having.

One of these days, the highway department is going to have to resurface US-90 at least from the Bay Bridge to Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

The patching materials just cannot hold up very long with so much moisture.

We are glad the Forget-Me-Not senior craft outlet will remain open through the joint efforts of several bodies.

This shop located in Waveland provides an outlet for many retired persons who have some craft talents.

It enables these people to make a few extra dollars, and everyone knows how much money it takes today to run a household.

So, thanks to everyone involved for their help in keeping the Forget-Me-Not shop open.

Louisiana wetlands owners retain mineral rights after sale of property to state

Jan. 24, 1984
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Your paper would serve all the coastal counties well, and particularly Hancock County, if it would through editorial comment persuade the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation and the Bureau of Marine Resources to purchase wetlands from record fee owners, rather than attempt to confiscate wetlands by means of water gauges measuring ordinary high tide levels.

Similar wetlands on the west side of East Pearl River were purchased by the State of Louisiana.

Louisiana recognizes fee ownership of wetlands and permits the fee owner to retain all the minerals. The public gets the surface use and the seller gets or keeps the minerals.

An article in the Times Picayune issue 24 Jan. 1984 pertains to the sale of 6,097 acres (surface) of wetlands to the State of Louisiana for $285 per acre for surface only.

The minerals were retained by the Iwanta Partnership.

This is the proper way for a state to acquire recreational land for the people.

Hope you will carry the ball and get Mississippi on the right track.

Sincerely,
Gus B. Baldwin Jr.

Animal Commission reports six-months shelter statistics

January 21, 1984
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Hancock Animal Commission reports that from July 5 to Dec. 31 506 cats were brought in or picked up; 315 dogs were picked up; and 375 dogs were brought to the shelter.

We were fortunate to have 144 dogs and 74 cats adopted.

We would like all citizens who own an animal to make sure it has necessary vaccinations, is in a fenced enclosure and leashed when in the street.

The shelter adoption program is dependent upon volunteer workers who can put in a few hours once a week.

At this point we are in need of additional animal lovers to assist in getting these animals good homes.

If you can help, please contact Mrs. Geri Richardson, 467-0475 or Kathy Sconza, 467-5409.

Respectfully,
Cel Dumestre
Chairman

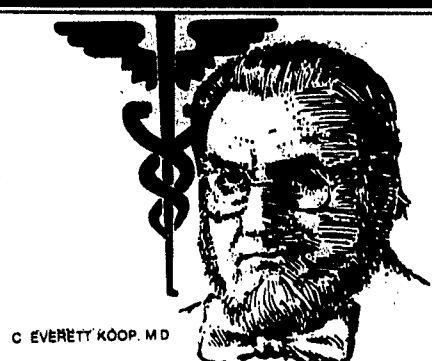

READING PROBLEM—It appears persons dumping garbage in this marshy area on the road entering Clermont Harbor from the Lower Bay Road cannot read. If several of them were caught and given stiff fines, they would probably go to night school and learn to read a sign as simple as 'No Dumping'. When are the people of Hancock County going to band together and say we have had enough of this garbage dumping along our roadways. Think about it. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Osteoporosis Can Be Prevented

Many of us know someone—usually a woman over the age of 60—who has broken a hip or wrist while doing a routine task.

Bone fractures are common among elderly women, we have heard, because their bones simply weaken with age.

In point of fact, weakening of the bones is not an inevitable part of the aging process.

It is a treatable disease called osteoporosis.

Roughly 15 million Americans suffer from some degree of osteoporosis, and about 88 percent of the cases occur in women.

Osteoporosis can begin as early as age 35, so that by the time a person reaches the age of 60, her (or his) bones are thinner and break more easily than those of someone who has not developed the disease.

Every year, 190,000 elderly persons fracture hip bones.

Osteoporosis is often the underlying cause, and many of these people decline in health and die within six months of the injury.

This tragedy is made all the more terrible by the fact that osteoporosis is largely preventable.

Osteoporosis is a progressive disease, meaning that once it begins, it continues to worsen if not treated.

Osteoporosis is caused by a decrease in calcium and other substances that maintain strong bones.

Women are more likely to contract the disease, partly because their bones are smaller to start with, and also because changes that occur during menopause lower the levels of calcium and estrogen in their bodies, thereby accelerating their loss of bone tissue.

For most women, the gradual bone-thinning process that occurs in osteoporosis is painless.

In fact, the first sign of disease often appears on an x-ray taken for another purpose or, unfortunately, when a bone is fractured.

The disorder usually shows up first in the bones of the forearm and the spine. It may later affect the upper part of the thigh bone, where it helps to form the hip.

Women who lose bone mass in their vertebrae or spine may suffer from lower back pains because the shrunken vertebrae move closer together and put strain on the back muscles.

This type of bone loss and weakening can result in loss of height or a curvature of the spine that you may have heard referred to as 'dowager's hump.'

Doctors try to stop or slow down the rate of bone loss in patients with osteoporosis in a number of ways—by prescribing diets rich in calcium and adequate in protein, for example, and by encouraging patients to get plenty of daily exercise, such as walking, bicycling or another activity appropriate to the age and physical condition of the patient.

Vitamin D supplements often are prescribed because vitamin D aids in the absorption of calcium from food.

An effective and common drug treatment for slowing bone loss in women after menopause is estrogen therapy.

Neither vitamin D nor estrogen should be used, however, except under close medical supervision.

Of course, the osteoporosis that shows up in the later years had its beginnings much earlier, which is why medical experts today recommend that preventive measures be started as early as possible.

A woman should get plenty of calcium in her diet throughout life, but particularly after the age of 40 and following menopause.

Dark green, leafy vegetables are excellent sources of calcium, as are milk and milk products.

To make sure that you get the calcium you need, discuss your diet with your doctor.

After estimating the calcium content of a person's normal diet, a doctor can recommend calcium supplement tablets, if necessary, to bring daily calcium intake up to the proper level for that individual.

Staying active appears to protect against osteoporosis, too.

While there is no hard proof that exercise will prevent the disorder, we do know that lack of physical activity hastens bone loss and that regular exercise of the type that works the muscles against gravity, such as walking, bicycling and running, serves to maintain and actually strengthen bones.

Osteoporosis is a common problem, a serious problem for millions of Americans. But it is not an inevitable consequence of the aging process.

By keeping your calcium intake at the proper level and by getting the right kinds of exercise on a regular basis, you can do a great deal to protect yourself against this disabling, but preventable, disease.

MEC News

The Mississippi Economic Council is launching a $3 million capital development campaign to meet increased demands for free enterprise education, for leadership development, and for academic encouragement.

MEC Chairman Charles Sewell of Jackson announced that J. Marlin Ivey of Kosciusko will lead the Council's Mississippi American Enterprise Development Campaign.

Ivey, vice chairman-elect of MEC, is owner of a nationally recognized contracting business with offices in Kosciusko; Houston, Texas; Nashville, Tennessee; and Charlotte, North Carolina. He has served as chairman of MEC's Free Enterprise, Goals for Mississippi, and Annual Meeting Committees.

He has also served as a member of the Board of Directors and of the Executive Committee. He will serve as vice chairman of the Council for the 1984-85 year and will serve as chairman for the 1985-86 year.

"I feel very strongly about the free enterprise system," said Ivey. "It is a vital part of our future. Because of that, I want to have a part in helping to train young people to understand the opportunities it affords them."

The programs to be funded under the $3 million development campaign are operated under the Council's M.B. Swayze Educational Foundation. The Foundation is named in honor of the first general manager of the Council.

"Operation of the American Enterprise Center," explained Sewell, "is the principal work of the Foundation. Opened in 1979 to help Mississippians understand the importance of free enterprise and its relationship to freedom and prosperity, the Center is supported totally by private funds."

In addition to the American Enterprise Center, Foundation funds are used to support the Council's Leadership Mississippi program, and the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) program which recognizes academic achievement among high school students and teachers and which provides scholarships for superior students and teachers.

The 1984 fund campaign, said Ivey, is planned to provide $1 million in operating funds for the Foundation programs for the next three years and to provide $2 million for an endowment to help assure the permanence of the programs.

"Over the past four years the programs of the Foundation have produced dramatic results for the citizens of Mississippi," Sewell emphasized.

Among accomplishments of the Foundation programs of the past four years, said Sewell, are these:

...Over 4,000 public and private Mississippi teachers trained in free enterprise education.

...A high school free enterprise curriculum published for use at the 10th-12th grade levels.

...Curriculum guides published for teaching free enterprise principles at the elementary level.

...Free enterprise visual aids provided for classrooms from grades 1-12.

...Economic education centers operated on nine college and university campuses.

...A free enterprise training program developed for adult employees.

...Some 3,000 high school juniors and seniors introduced to free enterprise values through annual Free Enterprise Youth Rallies.

...Free enterprise at work in Mississippi illustrated through a seven-part film series on Mississippi businesses just being completed by the Center.

...More than 1,200 high school seniors and their teachers recognized at local levels over the past four years for academic achievement, with 60 of the 1,200 given statewide recognition and 12 top students and the same number of teachers awarded Foundation-funded scholarships totaling more than $10,000.

"It is obvious," concluded Sewell, "that all Mississippians are benefitting from the work of the Foundation. The campaign will help us assure the success of the program in the years to come."

Ivey, as campaign chairman, will coordinate the work of more than 500 volunteers who will be involved in the effort.

"Tax laws," Ivey said, "are written to encourage contributions to educational programs as those operated under the Foundation."

Contributions to the Foundation are tax deductible.

A graduate of Kosciusko High School and the University of Southern Mississippi, Ivey is past president of the Kosciusko-Alata Chamber of Commerce and Mississippi Associated Builders and Contractors, Inc. He is chairman of the board of the Kosciusko-Alata Industrial Development Corporation, the International Bible College, and Magnolia Bible College. He also serves as chairman of the state Vocational-Technical Education Board.

Pass okays after-school program for unruly handicapped students

By NAN PATTON EMBRIGHT
Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District trustees have approved alternative classes for disruptive special education students in grades nine through 12.

To remove their disruptive influence from the regular classroom, Assistant Superintendent George Watson said special two-hour classes for unruly students will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. each day.

The classes will be taught by regular special education teachers and will offer basic learning programs to the students.

Superintendent LeRoy Lizana told the trustees earlier this month that the Mattie T. Consent Decree has continued to cause administrative problems for principals in the Pass Christian School District.

The Mattie T. Decree resulted from a legal challenge brought by a group of parents of handicapped children regarding the educational methods and selection procedures used by Mississippi school districts to educate children with physical, emotional, mental or educational handicaps.

Lizana told the board that because of the decree, administrators must adhere to a separate set of regulations when administering discipline to students for misbehavior and for failing to adhere to board policies on student behavior.

"The ability of school administrators to maintain an environment conducive to learning is severely hampered when handicapped students are aware that the maximum penalty for them for rule infractions is a three-day suspension while non-handicapped students may be subject to a more severe period of suspension and possible expulsion for the same or similar infractions, he said."

Watson said the proposal was drafted by High School Principal Adrian Swanner and June Markwalder, new special education supervisor, after consultation with the State Department of Education and other agencies.

The proposal recognizes that some students have more difficulty in adjusting to the regular classroom routine than others.

Watson said the majority of the special education students for whom the program was set up are educable mentally retarded youngsters who have short attention spans.

Even in their regular school program, he said, these students receive no more than two hours per day of basic learning instruction.

The balance of their school day, he said, is spent in the so-called "frills" classes.

During board discussion of the proposal, Swanner told the trustees that removal of students who are creating discipline problems will give teachers an opportunity to devote more attention to teaching students who are anxious and willing to learn.

Watson said there has been no adverse reaction to the proposal so far, and parents of handicapped students are satisfied with the alternative program.

"They understand the problem," Watson said, "because their children are also disruptive at home."

In another matter the board accepted the low bid of $14,500 from Page Electrical Contractors for installation of ceiling fans in classrooms.

In December the board accepted a bid for the fans themselves from Stuart Irby Company at $144 each.

The plan calls for two ceiling fans in each classroom where air-conditioning is not currently available.

The school district will monitor the system to ascertain how effective the fans are at reducing the temperature in the classrooms.

In other business Lizana reported that he had discussed with city officials the possibility of using the city-owned and operated vehicle maintenance area at the city barn on East North Street for school bus maintenance.

He noted that the average purchase price for a 60-passenger school bus has risen from $11,825 in 1977 to $19,774—the bid price for each of three buses currently on order.

Operation and maintenance costs have also risen significantly, he said.

In an effort to reduce fuel costs, the district switched from gasoline to propane fuel during the 1981-82 school term.

"The cost problems are magnified when considered in light of the amount of district funds required to maintain the program," he said.

"The amount of state funds allotted for school districts' transportation programs continues to decrease, as the state continues to experience a financial crunch."

"As state funds decrease and operation and maintenance costs increase, the district is required to find additional revenues to fund the program."

Lizana said an alderman had been designated to work with the school district to study the feasibility of a joint vehicle maintenance program.

Lizana also advised the board that all schools in the district have received continuing accreditation status for the 1983-84 school term from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Central Reviewing Commission.

In other business, the trustees:—Received an attendance report showing an enrollment of 1,395 students for the fourth school month of 1983-84, compared to 1,374 students for the same period in 1982-83;

—Approved the claims docket of bills as follows: Cafeteria, $4,220; district maintenance, $2,588; P.L. 94-142, $807; consortium, $14; Chapter II, $219; Chapter I, $2; and —Approved the claims docket for payroll as follows: minimum program, $118,025; P.L. 94-142, $1,022; Chapter I, $6,442; district maintenance, $64,187; consortium, $750; student activity, $79; and cafeteria, $10,868.

Wells, Barrett take second state awards

At the recent Rehabilitation Association of Mississippi Training Conference held in Jackson, Judith Wells and Janice Barrett, Vocational Rehabilitation personnel in Bay St. Louis, received the 1983 Case of the Year Award for the Gulf Coast area.

The area includes Pearllington, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Kiln, Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor, Gulfport, Biloxi, Pascagoula, Gautier, Ocean Springs, Moss Point and Lucedale.

They were also recipients of the 1982 Award.

Mrs. Barrett was additionally honored with the Mississippi Association of Rehabilitation Secretaries' I.W. Leggett Outstanding Service Award for 1983.

She has been with the Bay St. Louis office since October, 1977 and is active in all phases of rehabilitation work and activities.

NSTL exceeds Combined Agencies Campaign goal

The National Space Technology Laboratories' 1984 Combined Agencies Campaign (CAC) results show that NSTL's resident federal agencies and contractors exceeded their $110,000 goal by more than $5,000.

NSTL personnel have surpassed the goal set each year since the CAC drive was organized in the late 1960s.

Jerry Hlass, NSTL director, served as overall CAC chairman for this campaign. He also served as chairman of the Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators (MCAFA) Combined Federal Campaign committee. Total federal and industrial contributions to the MCAFA drive exceeded $750,000.

Assisting Hlass with the MCAFA drive as project officers were NASA's Bill Fuller, Ann Westendorf and Mark Payne. The Harrison County United Way is in charge of distributing the funds collected during the MCAFA campaign.

For the NSTL drive, Payne served as drive chairman with Fuller and Westendorf as project officers.

Publicity assistance was provided by the NSTL Public Affairs officer.

Levi Odom of NASA served as treasurer; Myron Webb, University of Southern Mississippi, was kickoff chairman; and Bob Allen of Computer Sciences Corp. was industrial campaign chairman.

Borg-Warner expansion figures in state's growth

Industrial capital investment of $565,686,787 in new and expanding plants during 1983 resulted in 15,345 new jobs in Mississippi, according to data released by the state Department of Economic Development.

From Jan. 1 through Dec. 31 capital investment in 80 new manufacturing plants totalled $165,849,476 statewide. With 6,407 jobs created by these locations, the 1983 start ups increased by 18 over 1982 locations.

During the past year, $399,837,291 was invested in the expansion or improvement of 424 existing manufacturing facilities. This resulted in the creation of 8,938 additional jobs.

All regions of Mississippi participated in this industrial growth, and the state as a whole saw increases in manufacturing categories such as furniture and wood products, apparel, plastics, chemicals, metal fabrication, and food processing.

Bill Hackett, executive director, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, said he was pleased with the industrial growth statistics for a number of reasons.

"The 1983 figures on new plant locations indicate a 29 percent increase over the 1982 totals," Hackett says. "Actually I was expecting something closer to the level of activity we experienced in 1982."

"Our real area of growth, however, has been in industry expansions. That is what we were anticipating and that is where we place programing emphasis," Hackett continued.

"The 1983 figures, for example, show an 80 percent increase in industry expansions over the previous year."

Hackett also points with satisfaction to the 15,345 new jobs created last year. "This represents the seventh largest increase in the past 19 years," he says, "and when you consider that the higher increases occurred during the exceptionally strong years of the early seventies, we are showing surprising strength in this sector."

"I believe we will see continued growth in 1984, and frankly I'm not dissatisfied with the outcome in 1983."

Some of the major new industry locations in 1983 include Cooper Tire and Rubber Company, a $125 million start up in Tupelo which produces tires; Crown Zellerbach Corporation, a $30 million lumber and wood products processor in McComb; Hughes Aircraft Company of Mississippi, a $10 million start up in Forest which will produce electronic defense components; Louisiana-Pacific Corporation, a $20 million Grenada plant that will produce waferboard; and Moog Automotive Inc., a $7.5 million Pontotoc start up producing vehicular coil springs.

Major expansions during the year include Borg-Warner Chemicals, Inc., a plastics manufacturer in Pearllington with a $35 million expansion project; Delta Catfish Processors, a $6 million expansion in Indianola; Duo-East Corporation, a $8.8 million Cleveland plant producing nails and staples; Esco Corporation, a $5 million expansion for a steel castings plant in Newton; and Sunbeam Appliance Company, a household appliance manufacturer in Holly Springs with a $5 million expansion.

ESTATE PLANNING

Most people put off planning an estate because they think it is too much trouble. However, planning an estate can be simple if you follow these general guidelines.

First, consider the alternatives that are suited to you, your family and the size of your estate.

Discuss any proposals with family members and others who may receive property or a productive farm or business. These discussions contribute to the interest and welfare of the entire family.

The financial security of the parents should have a high priority in every plan. The children should provide a comfortable home for the parents with enough income to take care of emergencies.

Treat children fairly. It may not be fair for all the children to receive equal shares. The size of share should depend upon the contributions made to the parents, financial assistance received from the parents, health or other reasons. These factors would be recognized by the parents and understood by the children.

Consider estate taxes, gifts, marital deductions and costs involved in settling an estate. These items can be vitally important in large estates.

Certain phases of the plan may require expert help to achieve the best plan. Perhaps you should consult a banker, an appraiser, an accountant, a farm management specialist, an insurance counselor or others as needed.

After considering the alternatives consult a lawyer who can give final legal advice and draft any legal documents necessary to complete your estate plan.

It is very important once you have planned your estate to keep the plans current. Conditions will change over time and your estate plan should reflect these changes.

WINTER PASTURES

Extreme cold weather in December and January caused severe damage to winter pastures throughout Mississippi.

The cold damage allowed cattle to catch up with available forage very quickly and begin overgrazing. Cattle should be removed or reduced from closely grazed or cold-damaged fields to allow damaged plants to recover. Giving grazing crops a few days rest will greatly strengthen damaged plants and help maintain a stand.

Trampling damage and internal parasite problems increase as animals regrow the same areas attempting to get a fill.

All winter grazing crops will be under stress until spring, so limit grazing to a maximum of five hours a day for the greatest benefit from available forage. Delay grazing on cold mornings until frost is melted to help reduce trampling.

By alternating days of grazing, a larger number of cattle benefit from the green forage. However, it is very important that cattle receive plenty of hay or silage on off-grazing days.

When cattle cannot be removed, continue supplementing pasture with a high energy feed plus hay or silage to reduce grazing pressure. High energy supplements help cattle better utilize low quality forages.

United States Savings Bonds that are lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed will be replaced free by the Treasury Department upon notification by the owner.

Council to assist skilled laborers and industry with jobs and training.

Government

The government-legislative affairs committee is under the chairmanship of John Scafide, and will be staying abreast of legislation concerning all facets of Hancock County business, education, industry, agriculture and tourism, along with developing a deeper sense of mutual trust between the business community and governmental leaders.

Membership

The membership committee has set up two membership teams to talk with the business community concerning Chamber memberships. John Miller and Cathy Ladner, co-chairmen, said the winning team will have the losing team barbecue for them.

NSTL

Edwin Ling and Stewart Nelson are heading the NSTL affairs committee, and plan a tour for Chamber members of NSTL agencies and facilities, along with co-sponsoring an NSTL contractors day to familiarize local businesses about contracting opportunities at NSTL.

Retail

The retail committee, with Sherri Cooper serving as chairman, will develop ways to remind Hancock County consumers to shop at home, and other goals aimed at making retailers feel more a part of the chamber.

Publicity

Charged with creating an awareness of Hancock County in surrounding areas is the publicity committee, headed by Mary Perkins. This committee will also be setting dates for the presentation of the organization's slide show.

Special Events

Special events, such as the Christmas Tree lighting and the monthly Morning Edition coffees, are the responsibility of the special events committee, chaired by Jeanne Garcia.

This committee also selects Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Fund Raisers

A new committee, named the special projects committee under the leadership of Sherlyn Breland and John Mason, will be working on an event to raise funds for furthering the chamber's work.

Tourism

The tourism committee will be working very closely with the state for Hancock County's participation in the World's Fair. This committee is under the directorship of David Treutel, and plans include the use of local talent at the Mississippi Pavilion of the World's Fair.

Hancock Chamber lists 1984 'Program of Work'

Pat Harvill, president of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, has released the group's 1984 Program of Work.

Ms. Harvill said the schedule represents "a definite coordinated plan of action focusing on the most vital issues in Hancock County."

"Most of the efforts of this program are not expected to provide immediate solutions," she said.

She explained that the program is designed to provide an objective step towards a long-range program to improve and increase the quality of life for the citizens of Hancock County.

"The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is the only organization representing the combined voices of business, professional and political identities in all of the county," she said.

Ms. Harvill explained that the items in the Program of Work may involve the chamber as a primary action agency, but for the most part the Chamber will be acting as an assisting agency to other organizations which have the direct responsibility.

The responsibilities for fulfilling the various goals are left up to the 12 committees and their chairmen.

Agriculture

The agriculture committee, under the chairmanship of Bill Whitfield, will be recognizing and honoring the Farmer of the Year, securing memberships from the rural areas, sponsoring the Farm City Tour and June as Dairy Month and working closely with the Farm Bureau on mutually beneficial programs.

Beautification

Ellis Cuevas will chair the beautification committee, whose responsibilities include assisting in the removal of litter from the area and the scheduling of a war on ugliness seminar in the spring.

Education

Kathy Fernandez and Bob Hubbard are the co-chairmen of the education committee, which is charged with sponsorship of the annual Commerce Day, the presentation of the Outstanding Student Award in the area schools, and the development of a community resource bureau to secure speakers to lecture, counsel and assist local schools, teachers and students.

Industrial

The industrial committee, chaired by Dick Thomas, will be working closely with the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and the Mississippi Department of Economic Development to create an attitude in the community favorable to industry interested in locating here.

This committee will also work with the Mississippi Employment Service and the Gulf Coast Private Industry

County road deaths increase 44 percent

Although deaths on highways and city streets were down in 1983, deaths on county roads increased 44 percent over 1982, according to the Governor's Highway Safety Program (GHSP).

Last year, 222 persons were killed on county roads. The figure for 1982 was 154. On Mississippi highways, 350 persons were killed in 1983 and 384 in 1982. City street fatalities in 1983 were 142, and the 1982 figure was 190.

"Because of the sparseness of traffic on county roads, there's a tendency for drivers to not be as careful as they would on major highways," said Ira Lacy, GHSP director. "Many tend to drive much faster than they should, and these roads often are favorites for joyriders and those who are drunk. Also, because of the limited resources of most sheriff's departments, county roads generally are not as thoroughly patrolled as highways or city streets."

Lacy offered some suggestions on avoiding death or injury on county roads.

"Don't mix drinking and driving," he said, "and always have your safety belt fastened when you're driving on county roads as well as on highways and city streets. I firmly believe that fatalities on county roads could be sharply reduced if drivers and passengers would just take the time to fasten their safety belts."

Lacy also suggested that persons drive slowly enough on county roads to keep their vehicles under control if there's a sharp turn in the road, an animal appears on the road or loose gravel is encountered. "Because it's typically darker on county roads at night than on highways or city streets, sudden turns or animals are spotted too late," he said.

The GHSP director also cautioned motorists on narrow or icy bridges. "You should be prepared to determine if another vehicle is on or approaching a one-lane bridge that may quickly appear on a county road," Lacy said, "and, because bridges in the country typically are not traveled much, they may be covered with ice whenever the temperature is at or below freezing."

In most cases, the equipment to remove the ice, such as that used on highways or city streets, is not available for county roads. Cross such bridges very slowly.

Headlights are another important consideration on county highways, he said. "Be sure both headlights are operating before you drive off," Lacy cautioned, "and always dim your headlights if you see an animal on the road or an approaching vehicle."

Bright lights can temporarily blind an animal, and it doesn't know which way to go. Both the animal and the vehicle's driver could be killed.

"Many dangers on county roads are indicated by signs," he noted. "Watch carefully for these signs, and heed the warnings."

"Drunk drivers who may think they're safer on county roads and dangers that are spotted too late should be the concern of all persons driving on county roads," Lacy said.

"Don't let the lack of heavy traffic or other 'innocent' features of county roads lull you into carelessness. You could suffer a lonely death or hours of being injured without any medical assistance."

ASCS News

LAST DAY TO SIGN UP
 Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office (ASCS) says dairy farmers have only a few days left to sign up for the new Milk Diversion Program. The deadline for signing contracts is Tuesday. The voluntary program offers dairy farmers a $10 per hundredweight incentive payment for reducing their commercial milk sales from 5 to 30 percent during the period Jan. 1, 1984 through March 31, 1985. To participate in the program, milk producers must have been actively involved in milk marketing as of Nov. 29, 1983; file a milk production plan with ASCS; provide acceptable evidence of their marketing; not have transferred dairy cows which could have been used for milk production after Nov. 8, 1983, except as allowed in the transfer provisions of the program.

Gennin said milk incentive payments will be made to each eligible milk producer as soon as all necessary and acceptable evidence is provided by the producer, following each quarter of the contract period. The five quarters are January-March, 1984; April-June, 1984; July-September, 1984; October-December, 1984; and January-March, 1985.

However, sales slips should contain the month of shearing, month of sale, number of head shorn, pounds of wool or mohair sold and net proceeds.

He said sales slips for unshorn lambs must show the liveweight and state that the lambs were unshorn. Shorn wool prices for 1983 will average about 70 cents per pound, and the federal support price was $1.53 a pound. Mohair prices are expected to average about $4.50 per pound and the support price was $4.63 a pound.

Pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the support price for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs. The ASCS official said shorn wool and mohair payments are based on a percentage of each producer's returns from sales. The percentage is the amount required to raise the national average price received by all producers for shorn wool and mohair in 1983 up to the support prices of $1.53 a pound for wool and $4.63 a pound for mohair.

The program is designed to encourage growers to increase production and improve the quality and marketing of wool and mohair.

As of Jan. 23, 1984, 17 local producers had filed for their 1983 wool and mohair payments.

DIRECTOR OF MONTH—Pat Harvill, left, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce president, presents the chamber's Director of the Month plaque to Jeanne Garcia for her committee activities during December. Garcia is chairman of special events. The presentation was made last Thursday at the Chamber's Morning Edition held at the Waveland Resort Inn and sponsored by Security Savings and Loan Association. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Producers must accurately report their marketing to our office during the contract period. He said for the final payment, producers must provide acceptable evidence of total milk marketing for the entire contract period and certify that their marketing reductions are not offset by expansion of any production in other facilities in which they have an interest.

Milk producers who have not applied for the program are urged to do so.

LAST FOR WOOL
 Gennin reminds wool and mohair producers to turn in their 1983 sales slips for incentive payments under the wool and mohair program.

To avoid late payments, applications should be filed Tuesday.

"Sales slips from short wool, unshorn lambs or mohair marketing must be presented to our office before farmers can receive incentive payments," said Gennin.

The quantity sold does not affect the eligibility.

Peoples Federal reports 30 percent growth, promotions

Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association, following its annual stockholders meeting in January, reports a record 30 percent growth in savings for the previous year, a 25 percent growth in loans and investments, and a net profit increase of 40 percent over 1982, then the most profitable year in the association history.

"This 1983 growth boosted reserves by 20 percent," said David A. Treutel, association president.

Assets as of Dec. 31, 1983 totaled $44,629,755.

"The variety of new savings instruments now available to our customers because of continued deregulation have helped us provide a broader range of savings and investment plans and depositors have responded enthusiastically," Treutel continued.

Peoples Federal customers also have benefited from a greater variety of products in lending. More choices are available to mortgage borrowers and customer acceptance of our adjustable mortgage loan plans are encouraging," he added.

Peoples Federal has recently been named "A High Performance Association" in nationwide comparisons of savings and loan association.

THREE PROMOTED
 Phillip A. Ryan Jr. has been promoted to senior vice president and treasurer, Debra Carr to assistant vice president, and Gary Blackmon to assistant treasurer.

Ryan came to Peoples Federal in October 1978 as treasurer.

He was elected to the board of directors and named a vice president of the association in January, 1981.

He is a graduate of Gulfport High School and received a bachelor of science degree in accounting from Texas A & M University.

He has completed the School for Executive Development and the Financial Management Program, both of which are sponsored by the U.S. Savings and Loan Institute of Financial Education.

Ryan is married to the former Ann Weaver of Gulfport and they have two daughters and one son.

They are members of the Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis where he serves on the board of the Methodist Children's Center.

Mrs. Carr is a 1974 graduate of Bay Senior High School. She joined Peoples Federal in 1977 as a teller.

She has also filled the positions of teller supervisor and branch officer at the main office.

Mrs. Carr and her husband Charles live in Long Beach with their daughter Tasha.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Bermond of Bay St. Louis.

Blackmon graduated from the University of Southern Mississippi in August 1982 with a major in accounting and a bachelor of science degree in business.

He joined the staff at Peoples Federal in December 1982 in the Accounting Bookkeeping Department. He is married to the former Lee Anne Hines and they reside in Bay St. Louis with their son Matthew.

NSTL to ship 3rd Discovery engine in time for scheduled June launch

The third main engine for the Space Shuttle Discovery will be shipped from the National Space Technology Laboratories to the Kennedy Space Center later this month for installation in NASA's newest orbiter.

The other two engines, delivered earlier, have been installed in the spacecraft, reports Boyce Mix, Marshall Space Flight Center's program resident manager at NSTL.

The engines, which were flight acceptance tested last year at NSTL, will power the Discovery on the third orbiter's maiden flight, now scheduled for June.

At that time, Discovery will join orbiters Columbia and Challenger in the shuttle fleet which will later include a fourth spacecraft, Atlantis.

With the latest flight acceptance testing successfully completed at NSTL, development and certification testing has resumed.

On the A-2 test stand, engine 2010 is continuing its certification series. The engine is the test program's "fleet leader" and has accumulated 18,250 seconds in total run time.

Testing will continue until the engine reaches 20,000 seconds.

On the A-1 test stand, engine 0108 has begun another phase of development testing to check the design changes made to the high pressure turbopump to operate at the 109 percent thrust level. Mix said the engine has successfully completed two firings.

COLUMBIA TESTS

In the meantime, the engines which powered the Space Shuttle Columbia on the STS-9 mission last November have been returned to NSTL to undergo two test firings in March on the Main Propulsion Test Article (MPTA) test stand.

All three of the engines are at NSTL, according to Bob Bush, MPTA resident manager, Marshall Space Flight Center, and were installed in the test stand Jan. 20-22.

The tests will mark the first time that flight engines are used in the MPTA and will be the first firings using the 407-foot test stand since January 1981.

Bush said the first test of the Columbia engines, scheduled for March 1, will be 50 seconds in duration and the second test, on March 22, will be a full duration run of 530 seconds.

The purpose of the tests is to certify the main propulsion system at the 109 percent thrust level.

Previous MPTA firings, which used non-flight engines, were used to certify the propulsion system for operation at power levels ranging from 70 percent to 102 percent thrust.

"This will be the last tests to completely certify the shuttle's main propulsion system," Bush said. "The 109 percent level is the highest planned for any mission now scheduled."

At the 100 percent level, each of the three main engines generates 375,000 pounds of thrust at sea level during liftoff.

The shuttle's main propulsion system consists of three main engines, an external tank and associated hardware in the orbiter's aft section. The thrust generated by the engines, in conjunction with the two solid rocket boosters, lifts the vehicle off the launch pad.

Increased thrust levels of the engines enable the orbiter to carry heavier payloads, such as satellites, in its cargo bay.

Bush said the engines will be inspected at NSTL after the test firings and will then be returned to the Kennedy Space Center where they will be installed in the Columbia for the orbiter's next mission, now scheduled for Aug. 30.

Local fishermen oppose proposal for $5 saltwater fishing license

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Only two of some 20 speakers at a public hearing Thursday supported sports fishing regulations proposed by the State Bureau of Marine Resources.

It was apparent from extraneous and sometimes angry comments and spontaneous applause that the majority of the 50 or so people in attendance also oppose the regulations.

Brief comments were made about proposals to raise gill net licenses from $7.50 to about $100 and to prohibit commercial fishing of redfish and speckled trout by designating them as sports fish only.

Comments were also made about non-resident licenses.

"One big problem is commercial out-of-state fishermen," one attendee commented. "If we're going to gill net, let's gill net for Mississippians and keep the damned foreigners out of here!"

But the majority of comments addressed a proposed $5 license fee for saltwater fishing.

Speakers voiced their opposition to the proposed fee, and several took the opportunity to voice criticisms of the Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR).

"I'm opposed to the license fee, and in dealing over the last two years with BMR have tried to have meetings relative to the fishing industry with no success," Robert Metz of Bay St. Louis said.

"I don't see how this $5 tax is going to help bring back an industry that's going down the drain."

Metz is a member of the Gulf Fishermen's Association.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is another chance for people in Jackson to dump on Hancock County and the Gulf Coast in general," commented Mike Willumits of Bay St. Louis.

Frank Ladner, Bay St. Louis, said he represented the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club, and that the 65 members of that organization had voted unanimously to oppose the license.

"We just don't have the fish in Hancock County," Chuck Breath of Waveland commented.

"If you can guarantee we can stay home and catch fish, I'll go along with the $5 fee," he said.

Sylvan Ladner Jr. of Bay St. Louis also opposed the fee. "There are other ways to collect revenues," he asserted.

Curtis Johnson of Bay St. Louis reiterated other fears expressed that the county would not benefit from any revenues collected.

"The county here ought to get out of the BMR before they take it to the cleaners," he suggested.

Other speakers discussed the difference between sports fishing and commercial fishing.

"A license has got to be sports or commercial," Marion J. Strong of Bay St. Louis said.

"If they have sports licenses, they better eat the fish and not be caught selling them!"

"I feel that the Conservation Department is not a conservation department," he continued.

"It's a bunch of crooked people," he said.

"We don't have faith in you at all," he told Ron Herring of BMR, moderator for the hearing.

Paul Smith of Waveland, a sports fisherman retired from the Fish and Wildlife Service, said he wouldn't object so much to paying $5 more if the fees went to help increase sports fishing.

"I'm against a separate saltwater fishing license," he said.

"I'm for extending the license we have now to include saltwater fishing."

That would be similar to Louisiana law."

"A separate saltwater license would not solve the problems we have with 'imaginary' lines that separate salt water from fresh water," Smith noted.

"Many people don't know where those lines are."

"There are probably some commercial fees that should be raised," he said, "but a lot of these commercial licenses should not be raised much."

"I haven't seen many commercial fishermen around here getting rich."

The strongest comments supporting the regulations came from Ronald Ferrell, a Waveland commercial fisherman.

"Not one person has really addressed the reason behind the $5 fishing license," he said.

"This is our livelihood. The reason we want to see a $5 license is for fisheries management."

"We don't know if there are 5,000 people or 30,000 people fishing saltwater species fish. We don't know if we're overfishing and depleting the species."

"Our best tool is a license," Ferrell said.

"That way we can do and find out how many days a man fished, how many fish he took from the water, etc."

"The main purposes is not so much a saltwater fishing license," he said.

"It's to find out how badly we're damaging our resources."

The proposed regulations were formulated by the State Bureau of Marine Resources in Long Beach.

Herring said comments from the hearing, which is one of four being held along the Gulf Coast, will be compiled and submitted to members of the Coastal delegation of the State Legislature.

the vehicles must be moved.

After that period, the Sheriff's Department will place stickers on the vehicles giving the owners 48 hours to move the vehicles.

If they are not moved, the Sheriff's Department will have them towed.

In other business the supervisors adopted a resolution to object to proposed regulations formulated by the Bureau of Marine Resources that would increase the cost of fishing licenses and require a license for saltwater fishing.

Courge said he feels there should be one license to include both fresh and saltwater fishing.

"We support freshwater fishing in the northern part of the state," he said.

"And it would be easier to collect money throughout the state with one license."

The supervisors also:

—Discussed problems with fencing of plots in Rotten Bayou, Bayou Coco and Sand Hill Cemeteries and agreed to discuss the matter with the County

Graveyard Committee;

—Designated Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise as the contact person to coordinate compliance with revenue sharing handicapped regulations and to accept complaints about non-compliance; —Agreed to request a local private bill from the State Legislature authorizing the supervisors to issue revenue bonds for the new Hancock General Hospital;

—Asked Board Attorney Walter Gex to seek clarification from the state attorney general on whether the law prohibiting use of public funds for private work such as graveling driveways and digging graves also applies to culvert installation;

—Asked Jeff Taylor of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission to investigate voter reregistration guidelines used elsewhere in the state for adaptation in Hancock County; and —Adopted final plans for Blenville Estates Phase Two.

Accident hospitalizes Bay St. Louis woman

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A two-vehicle collision on Highway 603 Thursday hospitalized one driver and resulted in charges against the other.

Mississippi Highway Patrol Trooper Freddy Keel, the investigating officer, said the accident happened about 6:45 p.m.

He said Gwendolyn A. Favre, 21, of Bay St. Louis, was travelling south on Highway 603 in a 1975 Pontiac Astre when Ralph N. Vandyke, 53, of River Ridge, La., travelling east on Kiln-Waveland Road in a 1978 Ford pickup truck, made a left-hand turn onto Highway 603.

The vehicles collided and Favre was trapped in her car with her legs pinned under the dashboard.

A hydraulic tool called 'Jaws of Life' from the Waveland Fire Department was used to pop open the jammed door of Favre's car and pull up the steering wheel to rescue her.

According to the Waveland Fire Department, Mike Prendergast, Louis Prendergast and Reginald Fayard Sr. assisted in the rescue operation.

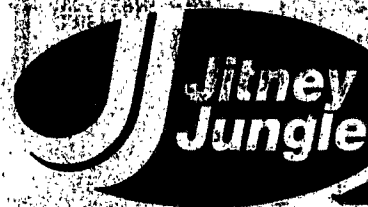

Favre was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital, where she is being treated for a fractured thigh bone, broken kneecap and facial lacerations.

Vandyke was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Chamber seeking entries

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is seeking young ladies between the ages of 18 and 22 to enter the Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce contest.

The contest will be held Saturday, Feb. 4 and there is a $5 entrance fee for those applying. Deadline for all entrants is Feb. 4.

Young ladies interested in entering the contest should check with the chamber office at 467-9048.

The captain of the Krewe of SCOWI, Mary Caillier and the krewe members presented a very colorful ball in Waveland at the American Legion Hall on Saturday, Jan. 28.

Reigning as King SCOWI IV was Herbie Betz Jr., son of Herbert P. Betz, Sr. of Jefferson, La. Chosen as his queen was Mary Hays, wife of Larry Hays, formerly of New Orleans, La., and now residents of Waveland.

The theme of the ball was 'The Hits of the 40's and 50's' which was well represented by the krewe which were led out by the court jester.

The ball was officially opened when the captain welcomed the attending guests.

The maids were costumed to portray some of the top songs of the 40's and 50's; Eunice Arnold, 'I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover'; Princess Fahey, 'String of Pearls'; Thelma Schneider, 'Wheel of Fortune'; Catherine Dauenhauser, 'Heartaches'; Edythe Wilhelm, 'Red Roses for a Blue Lady'; and Mable McAcy, 'Apple Blossom Time'.

The maids were escorted by their dukes, Toxy Hall, Forrest Singer, Don Maufrey, Lester Gallivan, Buddy Williams and David Caillier.

Officers of the club are Joseph Servant, president; Eva Shea, vice president; Irma Martin, secretary; Pere Cabiti, treasurer; along with the co-captain, Nevlyn Nichols, were introduced to the audience and were greeted by them with great enthusiasm.

Honorary committee men were Floyd Breaux Jr., Conrad Maufrey and John W. Lyons.

The ball was narrated by Bert Barrett. Set decorations and design were done by John W. Lyons; camera and lights were controlled by Jay Marsh.

After the presentation of guests to the king and queen and the grand marshal, everyone joined in the merriment and dancing to the orchestra of John Johnston.

Diamondhead Krewe tells Coronation Ball plans

The Krewe of Diamondhead will hold its coronation ball Sunday, Feb. 12 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

King Ali'i Honua IX Jerry Bourg, and Queen Lorrain Heler will be crowned by King Ali'i Honua VIII Tommy Heler and Queen Hilda Bourg.

The doors will open at 6 p.m. for a cash bar. The coronation will be at 7 p.m. and a prime

Time to Remember Program chaired by Pennie Treutel

Pennie Treutel has an unusual job as one of the volunteer chairmen for the American Heart Association's fund raising program in Hancock County.

She shares both the good times and the bad times of people in Hancock County and she sends out a lot of cards, many to people she has never met.

Mrs. Treutel is chairman of the Heart Association's "A Time To Remember" program.

"The program is exactly what it's called, a time to remember—whether it be the time to remember a wedding anniversary, a birthday, death of a loved one, an illness, or any other occasion," she said.

For a contribution to the American Heart Association, Mrs. Treutel sends out an appropriate card from the donor to a recipient of the donor's choice. The person receiving the card also gets a Thank You card that he or she can mail back to the donor to acknowledge the donor's thoughtfulness.

The sentiments on the cards are appropriate for a wide variety of occasions.

"The amount of the contribution is not disclosed to the recipient of the card. The contribution can be from one individual or from many, such as a family or a group of employees," she said.

The program benefits a lot of people. The donor is assured that a card will be sent to a friend or relative. And the American Heart Association gets valuable support needed for its life-saving efforts through research, professional and public education and community programs. Should you wish to make a donation in honor of or in memory of someone, please contact Mrs. David Treutel, 132 St. Charles, Bay St. Louis, Ms. 39520.

Ladner, Wilkerson exchange vows

Catahoula Baptist Church was the setting for the January 14 marriage of Leesa Gay Wilkerson and James Bradford Ladner. Rev. Junior Necaise officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilkerson Jr. of Alexandria, La. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ladner of Pass Christian and the late Margaret Ladner.

Arrangements of white chrysanthemums and blue carnations decorated the sanctuary. Nuptial music was provided by Barbara Larsen, organist, and Debra Lee, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Shane Wilkerson, the bride chose a formal gown of ivory featuring a Victorian neckline and long sleeves with fitted cuffs. She wore a wreath of baby's breath with ivory and blue roses and carried a bouquet of identical flowers. Vickie Wilborn of Anniston, Ala., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Anthony Dubuisson of Standard was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of Ernest and Sandra Garriga. Assisting Mrs. Garriga were Diane Necaise, Rhonda Ladner and Paulette Necaise. The couple will reside in Perkinson.

RSVP report

by Theresa James, Director

As of Feb. 1 the Forget-Me-Not Craft Shop will be managed by RSVP, using a part-time employee and volunteers.

There has been some concern by volunteers and consignors as to the status of this outlet. We hope that the transition will be smooth, with no interruption in the operation.

Consignors will be issued new numbers but the procedure will be the same as before.

Consignors must be 55 years or older, articles hand made and the Craft Shop will add 10 percent to the price of each article.

This will help with the cost of supplies and other expenses incurred in the operation of the shop.

We will need more volunteers to help keep the shop running smoothly. We hope to have two volunteers, for the morning and two volunteers for the afternoon.

shift.

If we do not have enough volunteers then it will be necessary to open the shop for a shorter period of time each day.

If anyone is interested in volunteering for this station, please call the office. There will also be someone at the shop to help beginning Feb. 1.

If you have not reserved your space on a bus to the World's Fair in New Orleans in May, please do so. Call this office of 467-9292 for more information.

Blood pressures are still being taken at the Waveland Civic Center on Tuesday morning as well as in the RSVP office also on Tuesdays.

Volunteers are always needed in many areas of the county, so call us for more information. Transportation is provided or reimbursement offered for use of your own car.

Two men and a juvenile have been charged with burglarizing the home of Charles McCauley in the Bayside Park Subdivision on Dec. 22.

Richard A. Mayne, 18, and George Singleton, 18, both of Bayside Park, were arrested Wednesday by deputies of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Each is being held in the county jail under 15,000 bond.

The juvenile charged with the men has been remanded to Youth Court.

Mayne and the juvenile are accused of burglarizing the house.

The youngster also is accused of returning with Singleton later that day to commit a second burglary at the same home, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Three guns and some other items were stolen, he said.

degree. Completion of the program qualifies the graduates to take two national certification exams. Graduates include, from left, Susan Berry and William Mark Hansen, both of Gulfport; Fran Marie Sallinger of Bay St. Louis, and George Harwell, assistant professor of medical technology at USM.

Sometimes what you miss most from your service experience is the challenge to your physical and mental ability. A good way to renew that is in the Army Reserve, one weekend a month (usually two 8-hour days) and two weeks summer training a year. For instance, an E-5 with four years' experience can earn $1,922 a year to start. Accept the challenge. Call your Army Reserve representative in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting."

American Methodists to mark bicentennial at site of church's organization

EDITOR'S NOTE: During 1984 the Methodist Church of the United States will celebrate its bicentennial. This is the first of a series of articles on Methodism in the United States and Hancock County by Mrs. Katrina McDonald of Bay St. Louis. Mrs. McDonald is a longtime member of the Main Street United Methodist Church.

By Mrs. Katrina McDonald
Does Lovely Lane Chapel in the city of Baltimore mean anything special? It does to thousands of Methodist people in the United States.

This was the site of a Christmas Conference in December 1784 where the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized. After a year of planning and preparation, Methodists will celebrate during 1984 the 'Bicentennial of Methodism in America.'

The General Conference, which meets every four years, will hold its 1984 sessions at this historic spot.

John Wesley (1703-1791) is considered the founder of Methodism. In 1736 he and his brother Charles, both Church of England missionaries, came to the American Georgia Colony.

Although their mission was not an unqualified success, it prepared the brothers for an extraordinary spiritual awakening which had a tremendous impact on English history. The Georgia mission was their only occasion to visit America.

Prior to the Revolutionary War, supervision of the Methodist movement in America was tied to John Wesley, and he depended on the Church of England for his ordained ministers.

After that war, America being separated from England, Wesley realized the need for the establishment of a separate organization with its own leadership, that Methodism in America might meet the needs of the people.

In September 1784 Wesley ordained Dr. Thomas Coke as a 'general superintendent' of Methodism in America and ordained Thomas Vasey and Richard Whatcoat as elders who were to travel to America and become part of the new organization.

Earlier, the first Methodists from England had arrived in the colonies in 1760. Among them were Robert Strawbridge, an immigrant farmer who was responsible for organizing the work in Maryland and Virginia and who built the first meeting house in America; Phillip Embury and his cousin Barbara Heck who began work in New York, and Capt. Thomas Webb who was instrumental in Methodist beginnings in Philadelphia.

Under the leadership of these dedicated and effective laypeople, the movement was off to a sound start in America.

In 1769, John Wesley sent two of his preachers, Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmore, to strengthen the work in the colonies.

Two years later Richard Wright and Francis Asbury were also dispatched by Wesley to undergird the thriving Methodist societies.

Francis Asbury (1745-1816) is by far the most important figure in early American Methodism. His energetic devotion to the principles of Wesleyan theology, ministry and organization shaped American Methodism in a way matched by no other individual.

He set the pace for the itinerant ministry by riding more than 250,000 miles preaching, establishing Methodist societies and superintending the American work as directed by Wesley.

Only ten Methodist preachers attended the first conference, but several important actions were taken.

Allegiance to Wesley's leadership was pledged. It was agreed that the preachers would not administer the sacraments but would encourage the people to receive baptism and the Lord's Supper in the local Anglican parish of which they were a part. They also inaugurated a system of regular meetings of preachers similar to those Wesley had instituted in England, to conduct the business of the American movement.

The Revolutionary War caused profound changes. Dr. Coke, who had been ordained by John Wesley, was to travel to America with the two elders, Vasey and Whatcoat, and ordain Francis Asbury who had been giving leadership since 1766.

On Coke's arrival, he conferred with Asbury and was shown over the territory from New York through Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

After conferring they decided to call the preachers together in conference in Baltimore. Freeborn Garretson and others carried the call and on Christmas Eve of 1784, the 60 preachers came together at Lovely Lane Chapel in Baltimore.

It was here that the movement became organized as the Methodist Episcopal Church. Asbury refused to serve as superintendent unless the preachers elected him, which was done, with Coke and Asbury taking the title of bishop, contrary to the desires of Wesley.

As Methodists in America are celebrating their bicentennial, they are recognizing their beginnings and how far the church has come.

The United Methodist Church represents the confluence of three streams of Wesleyan tradition: Methodism, the Evangelical Association, and the United Brethren in Christ. It is a world church with 23 annual conferences ministering in other nations and 73 conferences in the United States.

God has chosen us precisely because we are weak, needy and sinful. He asks us to take on his value system and see the world through the eyes of faith.

We are grateful to Emile Smith Jr. and Steve Lizana for the hours of labor they donated in putting our church heating system back into full operation. We are also thankful to Arthur Lewis for completing the plumbing part of our church rest rooms.

The Alonzo Daniels family wishes to express its deep appreciation for the sympathy and thoughtfulness extended to them by parishioners at the death of Genevieve Daniels.

Congratulations to Derrick Smith and Dione Singleton on making the recent Beta honor roll of their respective schools.

The State Welfare Department announces that it has a number of black children (6 years of age) available for adoption. Should any parishioners be interested in raising these children with state aid, please call 1-800-821-9157 (toll free).

Religious instructions after 9 a.m. Mass today for 6th, 7th, and 8th graders. Weekday classes at 3 p.m.: on Monday for 1st and 2nd graders; on Tuesday for 3rd and 4th graders; and on Wednesday for 5th graders.

High school students, do you understand why you do what you do? Come and find out! This Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. we will have a get-together for grades 9-12 in St. Rose Parish Center. An excellent chance to get to know why you really are! See you there!

Gospel Choir will practice on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.; the Little People Choir on Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

Albert and Gwen Ishem will celebrate their 44th wedding anniversary on Saturday, Feb. 4, by attending 6:30 a.m. Mass. Congratulations!

The blessing of throats in honor of St. Blaize will be given immediately after the Friday morning Mass and also after all Masses next weekend.

The Bon Noir Amis Club invites parishioners to their Italian Night on Saturday, Feb. 4, in the St. Rose cafeteria at 7 p.m.

A dinner of meat balls and spaghetti, tossed salad and wine will be followed by dancing. Come out and enjoy the evening with them. Donation $4.50. Tickets may be purchased from club members.

The parish council will have its first semi annual open meeting of the year on Thursday, Feb. 9 at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria. Parishioners are urged to attend. Plans will be finalized for our basketball tournament.

The first meeting for parents of children preparing for the reception of Eucharist and Reconciliation will be on Thursday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the parish center. It is essential for parents to be there.

Next weekend the second collection will be for the Saltillo Missions in Mexico sponsored by the Catholics of Mississippi. Three of our priests serve the 35,000 Catholics there and in 40 village missions. Please help!

MASS SCHEDULE
Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Daily, Monday through Saturday, at 6:30 a.m.
